No One Is Too Bad | THE GOSPEL

What Do I Need to Know About the Passage?

John 4:4-26

Divine Appointments
This passage details an encounter between Jesus and a Samaritan woman. According to verse 4, they met because Jesus “had to go through Samaria.” A map of that time period shows that the shortest route for Jesus to take from Judea to Galilee would indeed take him through Samaria, however, Jews rarely chose this route. There was great animosity between Jews and Samaritans, going back several hundred years. Normally, Jews would cross the Jordan, travel north, and then recross the Jordan, rather than travel through the land of the Samaritans. Jesus had no such prejudices. He “had to go through Samaria” not only to get to Galilee, but also because He had a divine appointment with a particular woman who needed His forgiveness.

Crossing Barriers
In v. 6, Jesus arrived at a well at noon, roughly the same time a local woman came to draw water. The presence of the woman at the well was unusual because at noon it would be very hot – a bad time to be in the sun carrying heavy burdens. The fact that she was there at noon probably indicates she was intentionally avoiding the company of others. We’ll see why in a minute. When she approaches, Jesus does something very startling – He asks her for a drink.

Several cultural barriers stand between Jesus and this woman. Gender, race, religion, social standing, holiness – any one of these things could have prevented Jesus from interacting with her. In her response in verse 9, she raises two of these barriers but Jesus chooses to not focus on them. He suggests that asking her for water is a small thing compared to the interaction they could have. If she would just ask, He would give her “living water.”

The woman is confused by His offer (or at the very least thinks that He is!). Jesus clarifies that He is not talking about literal water, but something far greater. He is offering her eternal life, claiming that He is the source of it.

Sin and Grace
In verses 16-18, the conversation turns very personal as Jesus probes into her relationships. Having offered her eternal life, He now surfaces her need of forgive-

What’s the Big Idea?

In John 4, we learned that no one is so good that they aren’t in need of God’s forgiveness. We all “must be born again.” In chapter 4, we look at the other end of the spectrum and see that no one is so bad that they can’t receive God’s love and forgiveness. From the social elite and externally righteous Pharisee, to the promiscuous social outcast, the gospel is for all.

What’s the Problem?

Our sin and shame can make us think God’s offer of love and forgiveness through Christ isn’t available to us.
ness. She has been married five times and is now living with a man who is not her husband. In verse 19, the woman changes the subject. She reacts much like any of us would, squirming under the light of inspection. Her promiscuity likely led to social ostracism, which explains why she was drawing water at noon. Jesus’ purpose wasn’t to berate her, but to surface her need. Having accomplished this, He graciously lets her change the topic.

The Messiah and the Messenger
then Jesus does something else extraordinary. He explicitly identifies Himself as the Messiah. Several things may have contributed to His open confession. Jesus had an enormous amount of work to do and knew that His life was leading to the cross. Making such a claim openly would increase the rage of those who opposed Him, and hasten His crucifixion. but in Samaria, there was less likelihood that word would travel to the religious leaders who were against Him. That probably gave Him greater freedom to speak plainly to the needs of this woman.

Notice too, that she immediately goes home and begins talking about Jesus. This is the normal, natural and right response to meeting Him. She hadn’t taken a class on evangelism and she didn’t feel obligated, she just had to talk about this amazing man she had just met. Because she did “many more became believers.”

Conclusions
Jesus didn’t go through Samaria because He was in a hurry to get to Galilee. Rather, He needed to meet with this woman. He crossed several barriers without regard for social customs, told her who He was, surfaced her need for forgiveness, and offered her eternal life. No one is beyond the reach of the love and mercy of God. The gospel is for everyone.

Furthermore, everyone can do the work of an evangelist. This woman was an outcast and had little credibility due to her sinful life. She also knew very little theology, and even less about Jesus. Yet she was able to tell her story about what Jesus had said and done for her.

Anyone who has put their faith in Christ and received His forgiveness for their sins has a story to tell. Use this passage to embolden your group to tell theirs to anyone who will listen.

What’s Our Response?
Three application points come to mind:

1. like Jesus, we should be looking for divine appoint- ments. ephesians 2:10 says, “We are God’s workman- ship, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do.” look for those opportuni- ties God has prepared for you and then walk through them.

2. We need to cross barriers. Seek out relationships with students of another ethnic group, or who are part of a different subculture on campus.

3. Have the group spend some time this week giving further thought to how they could share the gospel through simply sharing what Christ has done for them. Ask them to look to share Christ with one person over the week by simply sharing about their own faith in Christ and what He has done in their lives.
What Are the Questions?
John 4:4-26

Launch
Describe a time when you were embarrassed or ashamed and didn't feel worthy to be loved or forgiven. What was the worst part about it? Did anyone step in to love you through it?

Explore
Read John 4:4-15.
1. Jews normally avoided traveling through Samaria. Why did Jesus ignore this practice?
2. What cultural barriers existed between Jesus and the woman?
3. What did Jesus risk in reaching out to this Samaritan woman?
4. How does Jesus respond to her surprise at His initiative?
5. What would you think if a stranger told you, “Whoever drinks the water I give him will never thirst. Indeed the water I give him will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life”?

6. Why does Jesus ask her to go get her husband?
7. Among the many feelings invoked by Jesus’ question, the woman most likely felt shame. What are the major areas of shame that cause people to avoid Jesus?
8. In what ways do you see Jesus’ compassion in His conversation with the woman?
9. Jesus was rarely so plain about who He was. Why do you think He explicitly told her He was the Messiah?
10. Why do you believe John included this episode in his gospel?

11. What was the message the woman shared with her village?
12. What is the benefit of sharing the gospel through our own experience of what Jesus has done for us?

Apply
13. Describe a time when the grace and forgiveness of Christ became real to you in a tangible way.
14. What do you think keeps you from experiencing the love and forgiveness of Christ?
15. Jesus exposed this woman’s “thirst.” All of us turn to what we think will satisfy our souls. Where do you naturally look to life apart from Christ? (e.g., control, influence, pornography, relationships, pleasure.)
16. What does Christ offer to you that is more satisfying?

17. Take a few minutes and write out how you would explain the gospel through your own personal experience with Jesus and how He has met your thirst. This outline might help you to organize your thoughts and clearly communicate your own story.

Explain your journey to place your faith in Christ.

Explain how you trusted Christ – use this as a way to explain the gospel.

Explain how Jesus has changed your life.

NOTES:
What Are the Answers?

1. Jesus never constrained His behavior to the prejudiced or hateful practices of His culture. He had an appointment to keep that His Father had set up for Him with a Samaritan woman.

2. Gender, race, religion, social standing, holiness.

3. Anger from the Jews.

4. He dismisses it and seems to indicate that the barriers are of no consequence to Him.

5. Allow the group to discuss.

6. To surface her sin and need for forgiveness.

7. Allow the group to share their thoughts.

8. He allows her to change the subject. He is patient with her and initiates with her, holding out the offer of salvation, though she is by all definitions a “sinner.”

9. Because she needed to know it, and Samaria, due to its isolation, was a safe place for Jesus to reveal Himself at this point in His earthly ministry.

10. To show that the gospel is for everybody, especially those who feel they are unworthy of it. The story also anticipates the forthcoming proclamation of the gospel to the Gentiles – a large scale group of people who would feel no claim to God’s mercy.

11. “He told me everything I ever did.”

12. It’s difficult to invalidate one’s own personal experience. It also breeds greater personal interest.

13.-16. Allow the group to discuss.

17. Give the group time to fill out the outline.

Memorize

Give the group members time to finish writing their testimonies and have them try to commit them to memory over the course of the week.
